

Whatever Next?

Space pictures

Grab an old toothbrush and dip it in some white paint. If you pull the bristles back on the toothbrush and let go, the white paint will make a very starry effect on some black paper. Alternatively, you could print some planets using potatoes or carrots chopped in half and dipped in paint.

ICT

Helpkidzlearn.com has a two week free trial for home access currently. On there are some very fun rocket games under early years, and games. There is, also the song 5 little aliens under stories which we often watch and listen to at school. If you cant access it, youtube has some great versions of 5 little men.

Rockets

Can you make your own rocket using junk modelling? You could stick on buttons using milk caps or pieces of used tinfoil. Perhaps you can build a rocket with cereal boxes and knock it down with your hands or feet. Remember to count down from 5... 5, 4, 3, 2, 1...BLAST OFF!

What's in our sky?

Lie on a blanket and look up at the sky. What can you see? Are there any birds flying, or planes moving across the sky? Perhaps you can see the sunset or you're stopping up late and can see the stars? If you're up early, can you see the sun rise?

